UPCOMING/RECENT PUBLICATIONS FROM THE POLICY PRESS (UK)

- World Report 2014: Events of 2013 by Human Rights Watch. This is the global rights watchdog's flagship 24th annual review of global trends and news in human rights. An invaluable resource for journalists, diplomats, and citizens, it features not only incisive country surveys but also hard-hitting essays highlighting key human rights issues and striking photo essays by award-winning photographers.
- Changing children's services: Working and learning together, 2e by Pam Foley and Andy Rixon. Changing children's services: working and learning together focuses on the on-going and fundamental changes to children's services across the U.K. in the context of the drive towards increasingly integrated ways of working. The new edition of this bestselling textbook critically examines the potential and reality of closer 'working together' and asks whether such new ways of working will be able to respond more effectively to the needs and aspirations of children and their families.

Foundations for youth justice: Positive approaches to practice by Anne Robinson. This exciting new book outlines the state of practice now in flux within structures created by New Labour but moving in a different direction under the Coalition Government. It explores opportunities for a fresh orientation that places young people at the centre and works collaboratively to nurture strengths, competences and capital.

CANCER RESEARCH OFFICER, IRISH CANCER SOCIETY

The Irish Cancer Society has funded cancer research since its establishment more than 50 years ago. Continued support for cancer research is integral to achieving our vision of a future without cancer. One of our strategic goals is to lead excellent, collaborative cancer research. The role of Cancer Research Officer is central to achieving this goal by; engaging with senior researchers in the development of collaborative initiatives and programmes; developing a governance structure to ensure maximum efficiency and collaboration between Irish Cancer Society Collaborative Cancer Research Centres; and developing strong partnerships with research organisations both within Ireland and abroad.

QUALIFICATIONS/EXPERIENCE:

- Educated to PhD level in a science-related discipline.
- Minimum of three years' experience in a similar role, ideally with experience of managing large-scale research grants.
- Good knowledge of research environment including funding procedures, hospital and university structures.
- Experience in interpreting highly technical and scientific material.

PERSON SPECIFICATION:

- High level of organisational ability, accuracy and attention to detail.
- Ability to work on own initiative and to meet deadlines.
- Ability to cope with ambiguity and change and maintain high level of professionalism when working under pressure.
- Ability to manage competing priorities.
- Excellent communication skills, both written and oral.
- Excellent writing and editing skills, ability to draft and edit reports.
- Excellent interpersonal skills with proven ability to communicate and liaise diplomatically at all levels.
- Possess the highest degree of integrity and confidentiality at all times.
- Highly computer literate, with considerable experience in Microsoft Office suite, with a particular emphasis on Excel.

HOW TO APPLY: If you are interested in applying for this position, please send curriculum vitae and cover letter including current remuneration package to: Aoife Foley, HR Assistant, Irish Cancer Society, 43/45 Northumberland Rd., Dublin 4. Please see www.cancer.ie for further details. The closing date for applications is 28th February 2014.

CAMPAIGNS OFFICER, AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL IRELAND

The primary role of the My Body My Rights (MBMR) Campaigns Officer (maternity cover) will be to deliver the comprehensive strategy for Amnesty International Ireland including but not limited advocacy, lobbying, mobilisation, outreach and capacity building of members. The strategy will have already been developed by the existing post holder but refinement may be necessary as the campaign progresses.

The MBMR Campaigns Officer has primary responsibility for leading in the development and implementation of the MBMR campaign including the identification of goals, planning of tactics, building relationships with partner organisations, liaising with the relevant teams in the International Secretariat, carrying out high level and other forms of lobbying as required, monitoring and evaluation and report writing.

Ideally, the successful candidate will have:

- Demonstrated relevant experience in social justice campaigning;
- Experience and knowledge of NGOs and human rights/social justice campaigning environment in general;
- Knowledge and support of Amnesty International's mission;
- Organisational skills: ability to organise, prioritise and plan a demanding workload;
- Ability to think strategically and work within a team context;
- Communication skills: Good writing skills with the ability to edit/summarize documents and make campaigning materials "user friendly", with experience writing for websites an advantage;
- Interpersonal skills: Ability to get on with a wide range of people at all levels of the organisation, including members of groups and the public;
- Administrative skills and computer literacy including Microsoft Office and the internet;
- Flexibility: some weekend and evening work is required.

The salary for this full-time temporary maternity leave cover contract of 35 hours per week is approximately €31,000 per annum pro rata, depending upon experience.

Applicants are required to complete the Amnesty International application form and forward it to Agata Senkara, Human Resources Manager, at positions@amnesty.ie.

ECONOMISTS, ESRI

Research Officer(s) and Research Analyst(s): The Institute undertakes a major programme of research on Taxation, Welfare and Pensions based mainly on SWITCH, the ESRI tax-benefit model. The scope of the programme is broad, dealing with the cost, distributional and incentive implications of alternative reforms to tax, welfare and pension policy and identifying the impact of recent budgetary policies. Results are published and disseminated in both academic and policy-related fora.

Applications are invited for positions at Research Officer and Research Analyst levels to work on the microeconomic analysis of public policy. Successful candidates will be expected to contribute to a variety of projects including exploration of options for future tax and welfare policies, measurement of financial incentives to work, and the analysis of Irish tax and welfare policies in an EU context. Support for users of the model within government departments is part of the remit. There will also be opportunities for the successful candidates to contribute to the development of new research projects and to other areas of Institute research, in line with their skills and funding opportunities.

Candidates should have a strong background in public economics and the labour market, a facility for the construction and analysis of complex datasets, a firm understanding of how tax-benefit models operate, and the skills to contribute independently to research output in the areas of taxation, welfare and pensions. Excellent quantitative skills are required, together with interest and skills in the analysis of public policy issues.

Qualifications and Experience

- a relevant Ph.D. or equivalent for the Research Officer level
- relevant primary and postgraduate qualifications in economics for the Research Analyst level
- excellent technical skills (SAS programming skills would be an advantage)
- relevant experience in analysing large scale surveys
- strong skills in writing, presentation and communications
- proven ability to work effectively as part of a team and to deliver outputs to tight deadlines
- flexibility and capacity to contribute to other areas of ESRI research

The appointees will also hold adjunct positions at Trinity College Dublin.

The application form is available to download below and must be submitted, along with a current CV and covering letter, to jobs@esri.ie by 5pm on Friday 7 March 2014.

7. ISPA HISTORY AND CURRENT COMMITTEE

The Irish Social Policy Association, which was established in 1997, aims to provide a forum for the analysis, discussion and development of social policy in Ireland, North and South. The inspiration to form a cross border Association dedicated to social policy in Ireland came from Dr Patricia Kennedy and Dr Nessa Winston from the Department of Social Policy and Social Work, University College Dublin.

The Association endeavours to broaden the debate on social policy by providing a forum for discussion that embraces the views and opinion of a wide range of relevant actors. ISPA brings together professionals and non-professionals with an interest in social policy, academics, policy makers, officials in the civil service and public service bodies, employer and trade union organisations as well as organisations and groups in the not-for-profit sector. Through the Association, discussions and debates have been stimulated on a variety of contemporary social policy issues.

CURRENT ISPA COMMITTEE

The The ISPA Committee for 2013-2014 is as follows: Micheal Collins (Chair), Lorna Roe (Vice Chair), Frank Mills (Treasurer), Caroline Fahey (Secretary), Ann Stokes (Newsletter Officer), Marcella McGovern (Postgraduate Officer), Martin Power (Website officer), Claude Delaney, Eithne Fitzgerald, Tony McCashin, Geoffrey Cook, Pdraig Rehill, Catherine Anne Field, Vivienne Byers, Sarah Craig, Michelle Murphy, Eoin Carroll and Eamon Murphy.
